WASHINGTON (ANP) — The Republicans are under heavy fire by party members, including its aggressive youth wing, for following the white supremacist line in an effort to make inroads on the well entrenched southern Democrats. However, in Alabama, where veteran Democratic Senator Lister Hill barely escaped defeat at the hands of a Republican, a denial was made that the racial issue was exploited in behalf of the GOP hopeful.

$3,000 Claimed Missing

There are two unanswered questions related to the death of 43-year-old William Barrett, World II veteran, who lost his life as the result of a fire, in a rooming house owned by Mrs. Viola Tyson, 220 Bledsoe Street, Thursday night. The cause of the fire and what happened to approximately $3,000 he is supposed to have had shortly before he died.

Mrs. Tyson was unable to tell firemen and other interested persons what she thought was the cause of the fire. She told THE CAROLINIAN that she was sitting in the front of the house, looking at television and that she called to Barrett to come and look at a "story" which was being shown, in view of the fact that he had expressed an interest in it.

She further stated that she watched for sometime and that when she was attended by some arthritic pains that she got up and started to her room. On the way to the room she noticed smoke gushing out of the room which she had

Action Necessary In The Negro's Fight In America

BY J. B. HARREN

ROCKY MOUNT — Speaking to an audience of 2,000 here last week in the Washington High School gymnasium, Dr. Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. challenged those who "sit around and wait for freedom to come" to get up and do something about bringing freedom to pass. He said, "He who sits around and waits on time to bring freedom will be waiting for another century." King's appearance here was sponsored by the Rocky Mount Voters and Improvement League.

Speaking from his topic, "Facing The Challenge Of A New Age," Dr. King said: "We seem too old to change in our own country, but there comes a time when people (who are under pressure) get tired of being trampled and pushed aside out of the sunshine of July." "Our parents were brought here against their will from the continent of Africa and treated as 'things' instead of as humans. But a man named Abe Lincoln came along and saw that this was wrong; and with the stroke of his pen lifted the physical bonds of slavery from us. Still, they would not give us complete freedom."

King reminded the audience of the Dred Scott Decision of 1857 which declared that "Negroes had no rights the white man is bound to respect." "Then," King continued, after Negroes had gained the ballot and use of public facilities, the 1896 Plessy versus Ferguson case set us back with the Jim Crow Law. But, in 1954, after years of hard work by new light on the horizon followed and Negroes have been making rapid strides toward freedom.

He declared: "Now that we have broken through the evils of slavery to the borders of integration and man has made of this world

Pickers Sentenced In Edenton

EDENTON—Nine persons were arrested last Thursday and charged with picketing and were sentenced to various suspended terms. According to the police they had violated the town's anti-picketing ordinance at a segregated drugstore.

One of the group, Golden A. Frinks, said to be a leader of the movement, was found guilty of "being engaged in more than 10 pickets," assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest. He was sentenced to six months imprisonment, suspended upon payment of $25 fine and court costs, on condition that he violate no local or state law for 12 months.

The group was given until December 8 to pay the fines and costs of the court or be imprisoned. Most of them were given 30 days at the county workhouse.

Dunston And Goodson Involved In Controversy

What's in a name? Theodore Goodson thought there might be something to the use of his dead brother's name, by a man who had married the widow in about 7 months after his brother was buried.

After learning that Freddie Dunston had been convicted of a minor crime, in City Court, last week, in which the name of his dead brother was used, he proceeded to go to the Court and to inform it that he means could his brother plead guilty to an offense, due to the fact that he had long since departed this life.

This late information threw the court into a dither, causing both Judge Prewitt Winborne, Assistant Solicitor E. Ray Briggs to wonder whether the ends of justice had been met and whether they had erred. The consternation did not stop there. It developed that Attorney George R. Greene, who defended the victim of innocent, yet legal support, of the whole affair.

The upshot of the whole matter has been that Freddie Leon Dunston has been re-arrested on the same charge (indecent exposure) and is slated to face trial Wednesday.

He told The CAROLINIAN Tuesday that he had no remorse or bitterness in his heart toward anyone and even though he had paid for the crime, he was charged with and the hearing could seriously damage him, he would suffer whatever fate awaited him and accept same without hate or revenge. He did say that he has never told anyone his name was Joseph Phillip Goodson and that when he was asked for identification he produced a driver's license, bearing that name. He charges that he did not tell the arresting officers, the court nor the woman from whom he got the bond money back.

He alleges that when he was arrested in the early morning hours for what officers termed indecent exposure that he did not tell them his name, but when he reached into his pocket for some means of identification that the officers took the driver's license and presumed that he was Goodson.

He further alleges that when he went to see Lawyer Greene that he showed him the receipt for the money he put up, as bond, and told him he wanted him to represent him in that case. He said he had his reason for using the license and that he never swore to anything in court. He alleges that when the name of Joseph Phillip Goodson was called that he stepped forward and the lawyer made the "guilty" plea for him. He further stated that he was not guilty of the offense for which he was charged, but in order

WHAT IS OUR PATTERN?
Negroes, particularly those living in the South have for a long time been confronted with a code of practices loosely defined as the Southern pattern. This pattern, based upon the unscientific premise of white supremacy, has meant the denial to the Negro of the democratic privileges guaranteed by the American Constitution.

It is most heartening to observe however, that through perseverance, faith and God sustained determination displayed by the long suffering Negro, this vicious pattern is slowly but surely being destroyed.
The destruction of this un-American code will benefit the white far more than his prejudiced blinded eyes now permit him to see. The American white man seemingly does not realize that in his studied efforts to deny to the Negro the rights of first class citizenship, he automatically lessens his enjoyment of these rights. It is not felt likely that the Negro will lessen this campaign to achieve freedom for both himself and for his white brother.

What should vitally concern us now is what is our pattern? Do we have one? Have we given any thought to the matter? Do we feel that we need one? There is presently a loose form of cooperation be-

Hines Shoots Dunston In Girl Friend's Home

"He just walked in the house, took two steps toward me, and started shooting," said William Dunston, 37, of 515 S. Haywood St. as he lay in Wake Memorial Hospital with a .32 calibre bullet in his chest.

Dunston was shot last Wednesday at his girl friend's home home by Luther L. Hines, of Washington Terrace. The bullet entered beneath Dunston's armpit and lodged in his lung. His condition is listed as "serious."

Dunston said Hines walked into Susan Carroll's apartment at 6 Ashe Terrace, while he sat there watching television.
"I didn't feel any pain, just numbness in the chest when he shot me. I tried to get up from the floor and he raised his pistol and aimed at me again. When somebody grabbed his arm I ran out the back door."

Several other persons, including three children were in the room when Hines started shooting, Dunston said.

GRAHAM—Alamance County's Board of Education is going to have to face integration, or greatly improve facilities for students of two of its so-called Negro schools.

This came to light at a meeting Monday night when parents of Graham Elementary School and Clover Garden School agreed that unless certain improvements were made they would send their children to what is termed all-white. Residents of Cedar Grove, a residential area of Graham, requested school bus transportation to Graham Elementary School. If buses cannot be provided they said they will request that Negro students be transferred to the all-white North Graham Elementary School which is reportedly nearer their homes.

In the Clover Garden case, use of the school library as a classroom for mentally retarded children was the complaint. Representatives from Clover Garden one great brotherhood, men everywhere must learn to live together as brothers or we will die together as fools."

King said there is something wrong with our American economic system which "sees us paying out a million dollars in storage rates for food we do not need (in order to keep the prices up) when we could give it to 360 million Indians who make less than $70 a year. This food," he declared, "could be stored more profitably in the wrinkled stomachs of those hungry millions who go to bed hungry every night."

Warning that we must use every source of information available to anybody else to educate, train, and qualify ourselves for all jobs from the lowest to the highest, King said, "Let us set out to do a good job at whatever calling we undertake, realizing that there are no longer 'colored jobs' and 'white jobs,' but just jobs for all people. We must be the best of whatever we are."

King urged that there be "no compromise at this point because segregation is wrong; it is an illegitimate child born of a compromise between filiality and immorality."

Stressing the need for cooperation between all Negroes in obtaining acceptance into the mainstream of American life through better living and responsibly using the ballot, King said, "I can never be what I ought to be until you are what you ought to be."

Repeating the need for registering and voting and citing the power of the ballot, King related how that with one-third of the total vote, Negroes in Atlanta overwhelmingly elected their preference in a mayoralty campaign and he started working more fairly.

Hitting at the failure of Negroes to support civil rights movements such as Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and the NAACP, King said, "it will be tragic, indeed, if it can be said - at the height of the 20th century - that the Negro spent his money for frivolity rather than for his civil rights. It's time more Negroes in North Carolina set to voting so they can send senators like Frank Graham to Congress."

King who has been a prime example of the biblical admonition to "turn the other cheek" when arrested, said "non-violent action causes one to transform jails from dungeons of shame into weapons of soul-force and love which overpower your enemies. If a man has not discovered something he is willing to suffer and die for, then he is not fit to live," he added.

"Court orders alone cannot deliver our rights; they can only declare them. It is up to us as individuals to promote them," he said.

"The great weakness and tragedy of Communism is right here in America where it is fed by the unfair treatment of the nation's largest minority," King stated.

"You can stand up against segregation and love the segregationist - we need not hate or use violence," King assured his frequently applauding audience. He warned, "we will meet your violence with soul-force; we will still love you when you mistreat us; we'll wear you tween the various Negro groups who are fighting freedom battles. However, it does not appear that there is any where within the Negro race, a group which is trying to really develop the Negro along lines calculated to prepare him for the proper utilization of the rights and privileges he is fighting for.

We believe that one of the greatest tragedies of our times is the mistaken belief of the great majority of American Negroes that they are NOW ready to move primarily into all areas of American life.

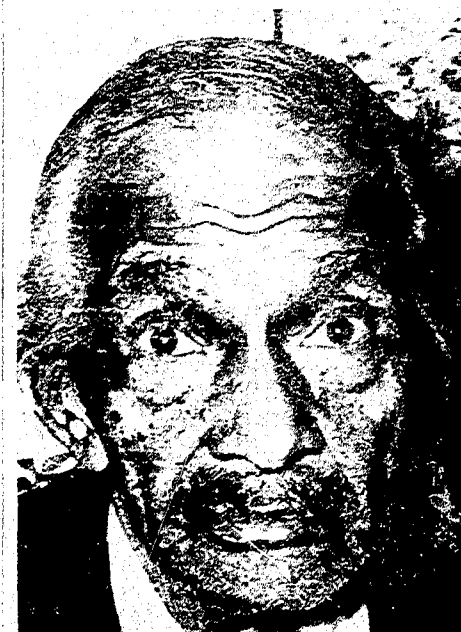

The way we see it, there should be just as many efforts made to remedy our many short comings, as being made to obtain economic, political and social freedom. The thing which really appalls us is the lack of concern on our part about our short comings. As a matter of fact, there will be among those who read this, Negroes who will violently disagree with what we are saying. It is something we have said before and if God continues to give us breath we will continue to say it more frequently.

We should learn to establish a pattern of values based upon reality. Our present code of values is based upon deception, fraud, inefficiency and complacency. We should learn to establish a pattern of honesty and trustworthiness. We will not be trusted until we prove ourselves trustworthy. It is a painful fact, but the number of Negroes who deliberately defraud each other is way out of proportion when compared with other professions.

Max Yergan Expounds About African Freedom

BY ALEXANDER BARNES

Dr. Max Yergan, internationally known consultant on African affairs, told THE CAROLINIAN Monday that in a sense the greatest problems that the newly-formed independent nations faced are ahead of them.

The former YMCA figure had the following to say, "African independence has given satisfaction to many, however heavy responsibilities have attended independence. In some instances response has successfully met the responsibilities. This has been true in the Ivory Coast countries, the former French Congo and to some extent in Nigeria, with its 40 million population."

He continued, "In countries like Ghana a lot of unanswered questions remain. By and large all of them have something to be proud of in the leadership. In all frankness, it must be said that many tests remain to be met."

Dr. Yergan went to India and East Africa during World War I, as a representative of the YMCA. He went to South Africa as senior secretary, International Committee, YMCA. He remained there until 1937 when he returned to America to give his children the advantage of an American education.

He was born in Raleigh and attended St. Ambrose Parish School and Shaw University. He also attended Springfield College, Springfield, Mass. He has one daughter, Mrs. D. L. Hughes, formerly of Greensboro, but more recently of Philadelphia, where her husband is a physician. He has two sons who practice medicine in New York and another son who is an officer in the United States Air Force.

He has seen the independent nations of Africa grow from 3 in 1920, to where they are only one or two that have not gained their independence. He predicts that they will soon join the other free nations.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (ANP) — Simon Booker, chief of the Washington Bureau, said last week said Negroes were largely responsible for the rioting that broke out after a Thanksgiving Day football game between a Negro and a white high school team and called upon the city's Negro leaders to tackle the problem of rioting.

Booker expressed his views in a letter to the Washington Post newspaper. In it, he said "the explosion of hate (at the game) stemmed mostly from my own people."

He said that following the championship game between predominantly Negro Jackson High School and Eastern High, largely a Negro public high school, he saw Negroes attacking both whites and other Negroes. Many Negroes "were hurt trying to defend whites," he noted. However, no one was seriously injured.

Taking Negro leadership to task for failing to tackle the juvenile problem, Booker said:

"Negro leadership in Washington has a responsibility to tackle the problem of rioting and juvenile delinquency — not by excuses or statements but planned community wide programs . . .

"We must begin to develop citizenship programs among our youngsters. Segregation or discrimination may be an excuse, but it is not enough. Integration demands responsible citizens, and we must take the first step."
